EASTERN NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Latest from the Erie Strike

SUSQUEHANNA DEPOT, March 31—The military hold possession of all the Railroad Company's property and all is apparently quiet. The strikers held a secret meeting this evening and resolved to offer to return to work to-morrow, but if the Company refused to re-employ all, not to allow any to return. The Company have decided to reduce [illegible] from five hundred to one thousand strikers will be obliged to yield. There are various alarming rumors afloat but the town is full of troops and it is hardly probable that there will be any serious trouble.

Strike in a Massachusetts Jute Mill.

BOSTON, March 31—Two hundred and fifty operatives in the Methune Jute Mills have struck for the previous scale of prices.

Incendiarism in Cuba

NEW YORK, March 31—A Havana letter says: The incendiary torch is making great havoc in the sugar plantations. The Spaniards say the authors are insurgents. The destruction of property is fearful and in the most fertile tract of the sugar growing country. On the 8th of March the villages of Jaguayabon and Remedios, and the whole surrounding country were illuminated by burning cane fields. At the plantation of Maria about 400 acres of sugar cane were destroyed. Sources of which had been cut and ready for the mill. Volunteers had been sent out in search of incendiaries and several other detachments have been distributed among other estates for their protection.

WASHINGTON CITY

The Duty on Jute and Burlaps to Continue.

WASHINGTON, March 31—Luttrell has introduced a bill to admit, free of duty for two years on the Pacific Coast, all machinery for the manufacture of jute cloth and bag material. Clayton is advised by Dawes, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, that there is no prospect this session of duty being taken off jute or burlaps. It is possible that by Treasury Department regulations grain sacks once used may be allowed free admission.

The Senate has confirmed the nomination of Jas. Coey for postmaster at San Francisco. The nomination was reported favorably by Jones from the Committee, and confirmed under the lead of Sargent after a very brief discussion, in which Hager opposed it on the ground that Stone's retention was desired by the business community.

The Investigation into the Washington City Ring.

WASHINGTON, March 31—Testimony before the Congressional investigation into the Washington Public Works ring's operations shows that part of the money for one contract was furnished by Frank Smith, an official reporter of the House of Representatives, who shared in the profits and is now in California for his health. It is supposed he will not return before Congress adjourns.

Inflationists Senators in the Majority—Richardson to Retire Soon.

WASHINGTON, March 31—The proceedings in the Senate seem to develop the fact that the inflationists have a working majority of at least five. The additional currency which Congress threatens is [illegible] for national banks, making the total of notes and greenbacks $800,000,000. Richardson has privately intimated his purpose to soon retire from the Treasury.

Secretary Richardson on the Sanborn Contracts.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The Committee on Ways and Means this morning resumed the Sanborn investigation, examining Secretary Richardson first. He gave a positive opinion in favor of repealing the law under which the Sanborn contract was made, believing all such laws to be impolitic. He never had been consulted by his predecessor, Boutwell, in reference to the law or the contract under it. He knew Boutwell disliked the law. He never was approached by any person in Sanborn's behalf, and knew absolutely nothing of the details of the matter. He had signed all papers relative to it without giving special attention thereto. He did not recollect an interview with Simmons in Boston in which Simmons said he had been instructed to aid Sanborn but did not question the correctness of Simmons' statement in the [illegible] section.

Sanborn Acquitted.

NEW YORK, March 31—In the Sanborn, Hawley and Van Derwecken conspiracy case in the U. S. District Court for Brooklyn this morning Judge Benedict sustained the demurrer of defendants' counsel to the indictment, and instructed the jury to render a verdict of not guilty, which was done.

Rochefort's Escape from New Caledonia.

LONDON, March 31—The Telegraph's Australian correspondent says Rochefort and his companions escaped from New Caledonia in a small boat, and were afloat three days when they were picked up by a British sailing vessel and brought to an Australian port. Rochefort has telegraphed to Paris for funds. He intends to visit the United States and lecture in New York and other American cities before his return to Europe when he will probably take up his residence in Brussels.

LONDON, March 31—Arrived at Liverpool 29th bark Spirit of the Dawn, from Portland Oregon.

Spanish War News.

BAYONNE, March 30—Carlist reports from Bilboa say that fighting was resumed on Saturday morning and lasted all day. The Republicans were repulsed at every point with an estimated loss of 1,000 killed and wounded while the Carlists lost only 100. An official dispatch from Somorrostro at 10 o'clock Friday night, says the final attack on Abanto has been again suspended.

MADRID, March 31—Serrano prohibits the transmission of private dispatches from Santander and vicinity. A heavy artillery fire is directed against the Carlists.

Bank of England Rate of Discount to be Advanced.

LONDON, March 31—The general opinion in the Stock Exchange is that the Bank of England's rate of [illegible] will be advanced next Thursday.

In the House of Commons to-night Anderson will introduce a resolution declaring that as Great Britain was adjudicated wrong in permitting the escape of the Alabama and compensating Americans suffering by her depredations, that British subjects also ought to receive compensation for suffering similarly.

The Famine in India.

CALCUTTA, March 31—Reports from the famine districts show great improvement. No cases of actual starvation are now outside the [illegible] in that district but few.

CANADA.

The Manitoban Murderer Takes His Seat in the Canadian Parliament.

OTTAWA, March 30—Lewis Reil, member from Manitoba, has taken the oath of allegiance and signed the roll of the House of Commons.

THE ABBEY FOR LIVINGSTONE.—We observe that a very gracious thing was recently done by Dean Stanley. Learning that the remains of the lamented Doctor Livingstone were about to be brought to England he wrote to the family saying that while it was customary for the authorities of Westminster Abbey not to offer sepulture within its venerable walls until application had been requested by the family and friends of the deceased, yet in the case of Livingstone there would be an exception to the rule. So that when the body of the lamented explorer is brought home it will rest side by side with the ashes of England's illustrious dead.—N. Y. Herald, March 11.

Senator Kelly writes from Washington as follows: "I have had several interviews with the Commissioner of Indian Affairs in relation to what is known as the Wallowa Indian Reservation to the people of Union and Baker counties, to have that valley set apart for renegade and dissatisfied Indians merely for a summer resort. The Commissioner seemed to be impressed with the same idea and has very strongly intimated that Joseph's band of Nez Perces would be compelled to remain on the Nez Perce reservation and not hereafter be permitted to molest settlers. I understand Mr Kimball is opposed to having the Wallowa valley set apart for any such purpose as the Superintendent recommended, and thinks that Joseph and his band ought to be compelled to go on the Nez Perce reservation where they probably belong."

From San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, March 31—Thirty one persons were examined in the city during the month for insanity. Twelve were women.

The British ship Vasco de Gama arrived at Hongkong on the 24th of March, 40 days from San Francisco.

Mrs Neilson's benefit last night netted that lady about $4,000. She announced her intention of returning here next spring.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 31—No more of the escaped convicts from the county jail have been recaptured.

From testimony taken before the Coroner it appears that young Fredrickson who shot himself Saturday night near the Cliff House did so because he was disappointed in love. He was an artist of considerable ability.

The confirmation of Col. Coey as postmaster in this city gives general satisfaction. There was never a word of fault found with Mr Stone and Col. Coey was a brave and efficient officer during the civil war, bearing to this day most honorable marks of wounds received in battle. He will assume the duties of his office at the expiration of Mr Stone's term.

The Black will case will be finally submitted to the jury in Probate Court to-morrow.

William Griffin was held to answer this afternoon for attempted rape on a little girl 12 years of age. His bail was fixed at $10,000. Griffin is a very respectable appearing young man, but the evidence of his crime was clear and positive. He is a machinist by trade.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 31.—William Fredrickson the young artist who shot himself on Saturday night last on the Ocean beach was formerly a resident of Indianapolis, and it was while there that he made the acquaintance of a young lady of high social standing. With a fatal blindness of passion they loved not wisely but too well. The consequence of illicit love soon became apparent and Fredrickson fled from the parental anger to San Francisco, here to earn a livelihood for himself and his promised wife, who wrote that she must come to him or [illegible] but fortune frowned on him. Mental anguish protracted month after month caused his mind to give way and two weeks ago he took poison and his life was only saved by a miracle. On Saturday last he received sixty dollars in payment for a portrait taken by him. His first purchase was a pistol which, after a hearty dinner at the Cliff House, he drew from his pocket, and turning to the sea discharged the contents through his heart. Will the tragedy end here? We have yet to hear from Indianapolis.

Interior California.

SAN DIEGO, March 31—The steamship Kalorama arrived at 7 A. M. with thirty passengers and fifty tons of freight for this port. She sailed at 1 P. M. for San Francisco via way ports with ten through and twenty-two way passengers.

The Pacific Mail Steamship California sailed at 5 P. M. with twelve tons of freight and 250 head of cattle for San Francisco.

The Pacific Mail Steamship Senator arrived at 7 A. M. with fifty eight passengers and eighty one tons of freight. She sailed at 6:30 P. M. for San Francisco via way ports, with thirty one through and twenty eight way passenger and fifty head of cattle.

SACRAMENTO, March 31.—The funeral of Dr Thurston B Hatch, son of Dr F. W. Hatch of this city, which took place this afternoon, was well attended.

The bustle attending the departure of members of the Legislature has caused the streets to present a very lively appearance to-day. Trains for all parts were well filled with departing statesmen.

GRASS VALLEY, March 31.—At a meeting of the directors of the Nevada county railroad held to-day John C. Coleman was elected President, Frank G. Beatty, Treasurer, Geo. Fletcher, Secretary.

DECISION IN THE U. S. DISTRICT COURT BY JUDGE DEADY

The Merrimac, No. 7[illegible], In Admiralty.—A. D. Moore et al., Claimants.

[illegible] agreed with W. [illegible] to tow his scow from Astoria to Cape Disappointment for $20 without mention as to which should furnish the tow line. Held that in the absence of any usage or understanding to the contrary the tug was bound to furnish the tow line as a part of the necessary means to perform the service undertaken.

Where evidence was offered to prove a custom to the effect that the [illegible] was bound to furnish the tow line [illegible]. Held that it was not sufficient [illegible] master of the tow could not be affected by such custom unless knowledge of it was brought home to him.

When a man [illegible] went to the master of the latter [illegible] at the request of the master of the latter [illegible] wise.

[illegible] A contract [illegible] was one of the hire of the carriage or transportation [illegible] and was a bailment of the kind denominated Locatio operis mercium vehendarum, which [illegible] of the tug [illegible] ordinary skill and diligence.

The tug, W. [illegible] Astoria with the scow J. J. in tow astern on the last of the ebb tide for Cape Disappointment, and met the flood tide and S. W. wind at or near Sand Island as might have been reasonably expected, where such tide and wind always make a rough sea, and in attempting to tow said scow against the same, the tow line of the tow and also of the tug parted and the scow went on Chinook spit and was lost. Held, that the tug did not exercise ordinary skill and diligence in undertaking the voyage on the last of the ebb tide or in attempting to tow the scow against the flood tide and wind, and therefore is responsible for the consequent loss of the same.

Under the circumstances of the employment with the exception of steering the tow, working her pump and handling her end of the tow line, the tug is responsible for the navigation of both vessels and her duties were those of a private carrier for hire just as much as if she had had her upon her own deck instead of astern at the end of a tow line.

When a tug negligently places a tow in a peril from which she is lost, it is no excuse that the tow might have been saved but for a mistake of or want of skill in the crew of the latter in bending a tow line in a dangerous and sudden emergency, the want of extraordinary ground tackle.

Where a tow has parted from the tug and gone adrift and is in great peril and the latter at the request of the crew of the former, attempts to take them off and in so doing collide with the tow and sinks her, the tug is not responsible for the consequences of such collision unless it was [illegible] the result of gross negligence.

DEADY, J.—Tuesday, March 31, 1874.

This suit is brought to recover $2,600 damages sustained by the libellant in the loss of the John Francis and her cargo of eighty cords of wood through the negligence of the tug Merrimac while engaged in towing said John Francis from Astoria to Cape Disappointment on September 9, 1873.

The vessel lost was a schooner scow, of 95 tons burden, 120 feet in length, 21 feet in breadth and 4 feet in depth with 2 masts and a rudder and steering gear. She was decked over fore and aft, carried an anchor weighing 250 pounds, with 30 to 40 fathoms of chain; she was built in 1869 for the wood and hay trade on the Columbia river at a cost of $4,000. Some time in 1872 libellant bought her for $1,100, and afterwards put $600 worth of repairs, rigging and sails upon her.

The Merrimac is a single engine, propeller of 50 or 60 horse power, and 48 tons burden, and has been engaged for some years in towing on the Columbia river and over the Bar to and from the sea.

About September 1, 1873 the libellant met the master of the Merrimac, Richard Hobson at Portland, where conversation was had between them to the effect that the former expected to be at Astoria in a few days with his scow, bound for Cape Disappointment, when he would want a tug, and that the latter would be ready to tow him over.

Early in the morning of the 9th the John Francis arrived at Astoria from the mouth of the Sandy in tow of the libellant's little steamboat—the Wasp. The Merrimac having heard the previous evening that the scow was on the way came over to Astoria from Cementville in the night to meet her.

Here the libellant and the master of the tug met and made a contract whereby the latter agreed to tow the scow over to the cape for $20—nothing being said as to who was to furnish the tow line. This was about 8 o'clock and near the last of the ebb tide. The master of the tug directed the libellant to have the anchor of the scow lifted and let her drift out from the wharf and he would come around with the tug and take her in tow, and in the meantime the libellant was to take the Wasp in near shore and secure her, and come off to the scow in his skiff.

The tug came alongside of the scow and asked libellant's brother, who was the only person on board, to give him the line that was lying in the forward part of the scow, which he did. The tug then steamed along slowly with the scow astern for nearly a mile when the libellant and another brother came on board the tow and the tug steamed away at the rate of 4 or 5 knots an hour.

The distance from Astoria to the cape is about 10 miles. Abreast of Sand Island and about 4 miles from the cape they met the flood tide and wind from the southwest. At this point the sea is always rough during the flood tide. The wind and tide being on the tow's quarters, she began drifting to leeward when the tug turned up to the tide and the strain or surge parted the line some feet outside of the scow. The tug then backed up and gave the tow her line which very soon parted short off some 15 or 20 feet from the scow. Thereupon the tug gave the tow the long end of her line and directed it to be bent on to the long end of the tow's line, which was done, but the knot slipped while being drawn through the water and the line parted before it was drawn taut. By this time the scow had drifted within 100 feet of Chinook spit and the master of the tug directed the tow to drop her anchor, which was done, in about 3 fathoms of water with 30 fathoms of chain. This was near the first black buoy. The scow under the force of the wind and tide dragged her anchor slowly in the direction of the spit and the men on her called to the tow to come and take them off. The tug backed up to windward and alongside the scow but as she reversed her engine to go ahead it caught on the center for a moment and she drifted closer to the tow. As she passed the bow of the scow a swell caught her and carried her across it where her propeller got foul in the anchor chain until it was paid out further, when she got away. During this time the guard of the tug struck the bow of the tow, the corner, and broke it down so that the scow [illegible] filled in a few moments, when upon the crew of the tow ran up and jumped into their skiff and got on board the tug, which was lying at some 200 yards waiting for them.

The tug proceeded to the Cape and returned at ebb tide but the scow had drifted so far into the breakers that it was not considered safe to go to her with the tug. By the next morning, at 10 o'clock, her bow was pulled out of her with the fastenings of the anchor chain and she went on to the spit and was lost. The cargo of wood floated out as soon as she filled and was lost.

The line taken from the tow was a 4 inch line about 40 fathoms in length and apparently in good condition. Henry Wilson, who gave it to the tug, testified that the Merrimac came alongside and Hobson asked him if the line lying forward on the tow was strong enough for a tow line. He answered "I do not know. I do not believe [illegible]" when Hobson [illegible] that [illegible] not stand there to look at it.

Hobson testified—"I asked Wilson if that was the line he was going to tow with. What he said in reply I do not recollect. I then ordered him to give us the line quick before we drifted away."

Ingalls, who took the line from the tow, testifies: "We went alongside and asked if they had a line and they began to hunt one up. They said they had one, and I took the line myself and made it fast to the bitts."

J W Bloomfield, a passenger on the tug and the person to whom the wood was sold to arrive at the Cape, testified that Hobson asked one of the men on the scow whether he had a good line. The man said he did not know whether the line was good or not. I think the man was Wilson's brother. He [illegible] and hurry to get on the line anyway.

Upon this testimony I [illegible] that the transaction of taking the line on to the tow [illegible] by Henry Wilson.

The line of the Merrimac was [illegible] Manilla rope of about 40 fathoms in length. It had been placed and subjected to severe strain in towing after it [illegible].

Either of them were probably sufficient to tow the scow in smooth water or with the tide but not against the flood tide, between Sand Island and Chinook spit, as the fact of their parting so easily abundantly proves. In this case the result is a safe criterion by which to judge of the sufficiency of the lines. The steamer Webb, 14 Wal. 41[illegible].

The libellant [illegible] testified that the tow should furnish the line [illegible]. The respondent alleged and gave evidence tending to prove that there was a custom at the mouth of the Columbia river that [illegible] the tow should furnish the line. The evidence in support of the usage is weak—coming mainly from witnesses who are interested in tugs—and in my judgment falls far short of establishing any such custom. The most that can be claimed for it is that it is a habit, less a usage, in the case of seagoing vessels particularly when being towed astern that the tow shall furnish the line or pay the tug extra for furnishing it, but in the case of scows and the like that the tow shall furnish the line if she has one, but if not, the tug shall furnish it without extra charge. Besides it is clear that no usage upon the subject was known to the libellant, and before he can be affected by a custom so recent and local as this is claimed to be, knowledge of it must be brought home to him. 2 Par. on Con. [illegible].

My impression is that the undertaking to tow the scow from Astoria to the Cape bound the respondent to furnish the necessary means to do the service with, and in the absence of any custom or understanding to the contrary to furnish a sufficient tow line is a part of such means. But the tow did furnish the line and I think the tug ought not to be held responsible for its sufficiency unless it appears there was some understanding that it was to be used at the risk of the latter. If the master of the tug called for the tow line and it was given and used without anything further being said or done by either party, the reasonable inference would be that the parties understood the contract as requiring the tow to furnish the line, or that they thereby modified or supplemented it to that effect. But in this case the man on the tow in giving the line also said he did not think it was sufficient and there is reason for holding that if the master of the tug took the line notwithstanding this opinion he took it upon his own judgment and risk. He testifies that he thought the line was sufficient. Still when the master of the tow came on board he made no objection to the use of the line, and manifestly did not think it insufficient. Upon the whole it is not clear to my mind whether the circumstances under which the line was given and taken from the tow constitute an implied agreement that it was to be used as the line of the tow and at her risk or otherwise. As the case may be satisfactorily disposed of upon another ground, it is not necessary to definitely decide this question.

The contract to tow the scow and her cargo from Astoria to the Cape was one of the hire of the carriage or transportation of the same for a compensation and was therefore a bailment of the kind denominated Locatio operis mercium vehendarum. The services of the tug and her master and crew were hired by the libellant for that purpose. This constituted the libellant the bailor and the respondent the bailee of the scow and her cargo. Story on Bail § 370; Ed. on Bail, [illegible].

This is a bailment which is beneficial to both parties and the bailee is responsible for ordinary skill and diligence. Ed. on Bail 371; Story on Bail [illegible]. But he is not a common carrier and may contract for a more restricted liability than the law imposes upon him. Alexandria v. Greene, 3 Hill [illegible]. The steamer Webb, 14 Wal. 414. Counsel for respondent insists that this towing did not amount to a bailment of any kind and in support of this proposition, cites a dictum of Bronson J in Wells v. The S. N. Co., 2 Comst. 20[illegible], to that effect. It was decided in that case that the proprietor of a tow boat was not a common carrier as to the boat towed, but the dictum that such proprietor was not a bailee, and that the transaction was not a bailment is in direct opposition to the language of all the authorities as well as that of the learned Judge elsewhere in the same opinion and in Alexandria v. Greene supra.

The master of the tug, being a bailee for hire and as such responsible for ordinary skill and diligence in the performance of his contract, what was his duty in the premises? Impliedly he undertook to furnish a tug properly equipped and of sufficient capacity and power to take the scow to the Cape, and for the exercise of ordinary skill and prudence in choosing the proper time to make the voyage with reference to the craft to be towed, and the wind and tide or other ordinary peculiarities of the navigation, and in the conduct of the enterprise in the event of any unlooked for or extraordinary emergency.

Of course the relations between the tug and the tow may be modified by express agreement or the reasonable implication arising from the circumstances and nature of the employment in a particular case so as to make the tug the mere servant of the tow and under its direction. In such a case the liability of the tug may be limited to the mere point of furnishing a sufficient motive power for the tow, while the whole responsibility as to the time and manner of making the voyage or transportation would rest with the tow. Sturgis v. Boyer, 24 How. 121.

In this case the scow being towed astern a distance of some 200 feet with her own master and crew aboard the tug is not responsible for the manner in which she was steered. It is evident from the circumstances that the tow relied upon her own master and crew to keep her in the proper place in the channel [illegible]. Spr[illegible] v. Hemmingway, 14 Pick. [illegible]. Neither is the tug responsible for any injury which may have happened to the tow by reason of any defect or deficiency in her construction, equipment [illegible] scow. It was implied in the contract [illegible] that the John Francis was a seaworthy vessel [illegible].

But [illegible] the tug is responsible for any lack of ordinary care or diligence on the part of the respondent.

The water to be navigated was not an ordinary one. The perils of the tide and danger of the voyage were well known to the respondent and almost unknown to the libellant. The scow [illegible] was a flat [illegible] with a square head and stern, well loaded down with wood. She could be towed to the Cape on the ebb tide with comparative safety while it was almost certain [illegible] towed against the tide between Sand Island and Chinook spit.

Under the circumstances there was a want of ordinary skill and diligence on the part of the respondent in leaving Astoria with this scow in tow for the Cape on the last of the ebb tide. He could not expect to carry her with him and must have known that he would meet the flood tide and wind at Sand Island, which nearly always make a rough sea against which it would be dangerous to tow the scow. The [illegible], [illegible]; the Cobb, [illegible]; the Blackwell, [illegible]; the M. J. Lennox, [illegible]; the Deer, [illegible].

In view of the force of these facts counsel for respondent claims that the voyage was delayed half an hour waiting for the libellant to join the scow after the tug had hitched on to her and that this was the cause of being caught in the flood tide.

Taking all the circumstances into consideration I do not think this proposition is supported by the evidence and if it was it does not justify the respondent in putting the scow into the peril, from the effects of which she was lost.

The testimony as to the time which elapsed between the hitching on to the scow and the libellant's joining the latter varies from 10 to 30 minutes and as to the distance from [illegible] to [illegible]. The weight of the evidence is that the time was not to exceed 20 minutes and the distance not more than a quarter of a mile.

The tug was making 4 to 5 knots an hour until she met the flood tide and had the ebb served she would have made the Cape in something more than 2 hours. The evidence is not clear and direct to the fact, but the result of this inference from all the circumstances is that the tug did not make more than 2 knots an hour against the flood tide. The witnesses all agree that the vessels met the flood tide abreast of Sand Island and this is very probable when it is remembered that they left Astoria on the last of the ebb tide—near low water. As indicated by the chart this is about 4 miles from the Cape. If then there had been no delay in starting, the tug would have met the flood tide in apparently the roughest place in the channel—about 2 miles from the Cape—and encountered substantially all the perils she did, with in all probability, the same results.

But for the sake of the argument admit that the loss occurred on account of the delay. That does not excuse the respondent. The delay occurred while the respondent was in command and under his direction and it does not appear that the libellant occupied any more time in making the Wasp fast and getting back on to the scow than was necessary and anticipated and allowed for when the contract was made. By his undertaking he was bound to know whether it was prudent to start when he did or proceed on the voyage after the libellant came on board. The libellant gave no direction in the premises from the time the contract was made until he called to the tug to take them off the scow and assumed no risks save those which the law necessarily cast upon him.

But suppose that the respondent had good reason to believe when he started that he could make the Cape without encountering the flood tide, still when the fact proved otherwise I think it was his duty as a prudent man to return to a place of safety and await the high tide and smooth water, particularly when it is considered that the only tow lines on board were insufficient to draw the scow through that sea, even if she could ride it.

With the exception of steering the tow, working her pump and handling her end of the tow line, the tug is responsible for the navigation of both vessels. Her duties were those of a private carrier of the tow for hire, just as much as if she had had her upon her own deck instead of astern at the end of a tow line. In Sturgis v. Boyer et al, 24 How. 122 it was held that "whenever the tug, under the charge of her own master and crew, and in the usual and ordinary course of such an employment undertakes to transport another vessel which, for the time being has neither her master nor crew on board, from one point to another over waters where such accessory motive power is necessary or usually employed, she must be held responsible for the proper navigation of both vessels." While in this case the tow had her master and crew on board yet they had nothing to do with the navigation of either vessel except to steer the tow in the wake of the tug, to work her pump and handle her end of the tow line. In other respects the navigation of the tow was as much under the control of the tug as if there had been no one on board of her. The master of the tug selected his own time for starting as he said that the scow could not be towed over the route except in time of smooth water. While they were under weigh no communication passed between them except when the tug backed down to give the tow her line.

Respondent also insists that if the two pieces of lines had been properly bent together, the knot would not have slipped and the scow might have been saved. Each of these lines had just snapped like a mere thread, and there is nothing in the evidence or circumstances which makes it even probable that the increase in length caused by fastening them together, would have made them sufficient to tow the scow against that tide and wind if the knot had held.

The fault alleged is that the libellant did not seize the knot. But certainly it could not have been expected that when the scow was about going into the breakers the libellant would take time to go aft and get some small cord and deliberately seize this knot. Nothing of the kind was directed or suggested by the respondent when he gave the order to bend the lines together. Apparently the knot was well made, but while being drawn through and against the water it loosened and as the line became taut, slipped. But even a mistake in the matter by the libellant would not excuse the tug which had already negligently brought the scow into this peril. The Webb, 14 Wal 417.

As to what followed after the scow cast anchor I do not think it material. It is possible that the scow might have ridden safely at the place she was left by the tug, until the turning of the tide, if her anchor had been larger and [illegible] longer. But the peril which resulted in her loss had already been incurred by the negligence of the respondent. The steamer Webb, 14 Wal 417; the Marmion, 1b 203; [illegible] v. N. Y. and V. A. S. Co., 24 How. 31[illegible].

The libellant was not bound to have provided his scow with ground tackle sufficient to hold her in such an extraordinary position as that. In my judgment, her ground tackle was sufficient for all ordinary emergencies.

So with the collision that occurred in attempting to take the libellant and his brothers from the tow after the anchor was dropped. The responsibility of the tug under the contract to tow the scow was at an end for the time being, the undertaking had been abandoned by the tug. In going to the scow, at the request of the libellant, the tug was employed more as a salvor than otherwise, and is not responsible for an injury to the scow caused by a collision under such circumstances. There is no doubt but that the collision occurred and that the scow was sunk and the wood washed away as the immediate [illegible]. But I do not think the tug was handled so unskillfully or carelessly as to make her liable for the consequences.

In the bill of particulars the scow is charged at $1,800, the wood $400 and the furniture, stores, clothes, etc., at $301. I find their value as follows: scow $1,200, wood $280, other articles [illegible], making in all [illegible]. The wood cost libellant $2½ a cord on the bank at Sandy and he had sold it to arrive at the Cape for $4[illegible]. I have allowed [illegible] per cord for it at Astoria. These are coin valuation, to which I add 10 per centum for the difference between coin and currency, which is [illegible].

The libellant within a day or two of the disaster went out to the wreck and recovered the anchor and chain from the sand and some of the ropes and rigging from the hull of the scow. Of these he has sold all but the rigging for $43, which he values at $40. Allowing him [illegible] of this amount for saving the same, the remainder—[illegible]—must be deducted from the above which leaves the sum [illegible] which the libellant is entitled to a decree [illegible] and the cost of suit.

[illegible] Woodward and H. H. Northup for libellant.

William Strong and Joseph N. Dolph for respondent.

A NEW WAY OF NEGOTIATING A LOAN.—As one of our ex members of the Legislature was proceeding to the depot the other day he was accosted by an impecunious individual who solicited the loan of $40. On being asked for what he wanted it, he replied that he wished to purchase a coffin for his wife. "Is your wife dead?" inquired the gentleman. "No," said the other, "but she is going to die. You are going away and there is no one else of whom I can procure the money." "Well," said the ex Hon., "when your wife dies telegraph to me and I will remit the amount." The lady is still alive with no prospect of giving up the ghost at present. The husband was evidently of Mrs Toodle's way of thinking, if she should die a coffin would be a handy thing to have in the house.—Gilroy Advocate.

THE TERRITORIES

On [illegible] now fell at Whatcom Lake Thursday of last week.

At [illegible], railroad, coal mines &c &c [illegible] are assuming shape—giving promise of good time soon coming.

The spring races on the Walla Walla race course are to take place on the last day of April and the first and second days of May.

The Bellingham Bay Coal Co is having a new [illegible] sunk about a half mile northeast of the present site where it is expected a very superior article of coal will be obtained.

Major Eggleston, U. S. A., Paymaster, took passage from Tacoma on the steamer last Sunday night to liquidate Uncle Sam's indebtedness to the bulwarks of liberty on San Juan Island.

The following item is from the Bellingham Bay Mail: Dr Cunningham this week showed us two Yankee potatoes from his ranch at Semiahmoo which weighed over [illegible] lbs. Rather large indeed.

The bids for the new county Court House, to be erected at Chehalis, county seat of Lewis county, W. T., are all in and the contract will be awarded early in April. The building contemplated will cost not far from $2,000.

The L. L. L. (Lincoln Live and Learn Lyceum) of Puyallup gave a literary entertainment on Saturday evening last, in their hall in that valley, which was attended by nearly 100 persons, a few of whom were from Tacoma.

The Transcript learns on good authority that a party of directors of the Northern Pacific Railroad will arrive on the Sound about the 10th of next month, for the purpose of laying out road work, if any is done, during the coming summer.

The Indian in jail at Walla Walla for the murder of James Corrigle made a bold strike for liberty last week. He scaled the wall around the jail yard while two men were shooting at him. He was pursued a short distance and recaptured.

According to the Express, the principal objects which would meet the eye and invigorate the sensibilities of the tourist at Steilacoom are "picturesque beauty of scenery, health giving climate, beautiful women, [illegible] fair children and stubborn old fogies."

Postmaster Sahm, of the Tacoma office, has been officially notified of the change in the mail route between the Sound and Columbia river. From April 1st, the old route from Monticello to Olympia is abolished and the new one from Kalama to Tacoma established.

Dr Price of Tacoma, has received a letter from his son, dated March 20th at Snoqualmie Prairie. The party had been detained there by bad weather, rain having fallen steadily since the 15th. They were making snow shoes, and expected to be off for Swauk early next morning.

The Walla Walla Spirit says the farmers are taking advantage of the present weather, as might be expected, and are putting in their spring crops with all possible dispatch. The indications seem to be that the coming wheat crop will not be as large as that of last season. Volunteer crops will most probably prove a failure.

By private letter from Washington, it is learned that the award of the Commissioners appointed to assess the damages to Mr Webster in extending an Indian reservation at Neah Bay over his improvements has been allowed by Congress, and he has drawn his money from the Treasury. It amounted to about $20,000.

In the case of Gallaher vs Gallaher, an action for divorce pending at Walla Walla, upon an order to show cause why he should not defray the costs and provide for the maintenance of the plaintiff during the progress of the action, the defendant, the other day, pleaded want of funds. Whereupon the plaintiff, his wife, swore positively that the defendant possessed $25,000 in coin, that he had the same "cached" away somewhere, and that she herself had helped him count the money previous to his secreting it.

Newaukum is described as the most promising place in Lewis county W. T. It is a railroad station and has both telegraph and postoffice, daily mail &c. The two storekeepers—Messrs Davis and Shorey—are both bachelors, and are both building new residences, said to be indicative of happy coming events. The grist mill at that place will be commenced next week probably. It is to be a joint stock company, with a capital stock of $[illegible],000. Ten thousand dollars of the stock have been already subscribed.

The Boise City Statesman of the 24th of March says: "Frederick Moy of Co H First Cavalry, Camp Harney, held in custody by Major Spurgeon at Fort Boise, for orders from headquarters for the killing of Charles Lee of Co. K. of same regiment, has received orders from General Jefferson C. Davis, in command of the District of Columbia, to turn Moy over to the civil authorities for trial. Marshal Pinkham received a copy of said order and went up to the garrison and received Moy on Saturday, and took him into custody, and now has him confined in the penitentiary as a United States prisoner to await his trial at the next term of the District Court sitting in this place."

The Olympia Courier of March 30th says: "To-day at 3 P. M. the jury in the case of Jones brought in a verdict of murder in the 2d degree with a recommendation of mercy. The jury had the case given them on Wednesday evening and consequently had been in confinement nearly 72 hours. Now that the matter is decided we feel we can say with propriety that the defendant may feel himself very fortunate in gaining so light a verdict. If ever a chain of circumstances indicated a deliberate cold blooded murder we think they were present overwhelmingly in this case and we think 9 out of every 10 in this section of the country agree with us. The limit of imprisonment is 20 years we believe, for murder in the second degree. He has not yet received his sentence."

BRITISH COLUMBIA

All attempts to raise the wrecked ship Panther have failed and the wreck has been finally abandoned.

Mr George Morris, for 11 years connected with the Victoria Colonist, has started a newspaper at Nanaimo.

The following are regular prices at Fort Wrangel: Flour, $8 per cwt.; sugar 18c; bacon 18c; coffee, green 40c a pound, 50c; yeast powders $3 50 per doz.; axes $2 and $2 50; moccasins 75c to $1; mittens 75c to $1; good fur caps 75c to $1; snow shoes $4.

It is reported that the Premier of the local government is in receipt of letters from the Canadian Premier in which Mr Mackenzie condemns the alteration of the terms of union by the local government without an appeal to the people of British Columbia, and that since the snubbing thus received, Mr Walkem has determined to dissolve the local House in May or June, and submit the relaxing terms of Mr Mackenzie to the people.

The Victoria Colonist has the following dispatch dated Ottawa, March 28th: "Mackenzie's relaxed railway scheme is said to be this: Commence construction on Pacific coast as soon as surveys over; expend annually in British Columbia not less than one million and a half, leaving time for completion open. Mackenzie might be induced to fix minimum annual expenditure at two millions. All changes to be submitted to the people at general election in summer."

The Colonist says: "St. Michael's (Catholic) Mission, established several years ago amongst a tribe of savages on an island lying off the east coast of Vancouver Island not far from Alert Bay, has been abandoned and Father Lequet, one of the most amiable and faithful of Christian gentlemen, gives up all efforts to civilize the tribe. This state of affairs is attributable to the demoralizing influence of whisky which neutralizes the teachings of the missionaries, and has reduced the tribe to a state of degradation pitiful to behold."

MISUNDERSTOOD

The stupidity of some people who make pretensions to intelligence is amazing. The spinster who understood her visitor to ask if she would not be his wife when he only inquired whether she knew how to darn stockings could plead in explanation of the mistake her great anxiety to be asked the vital question. The wish was father to the thought. But the Bulletin had no such reason for misunderstanding our remarks about the Ring County Convention held in this city last Saturday. The Bulletin says we were not satisfied with that Convention. Certainly our remarks indicated no dissatisfaction. We called it a healthy Convention. And we proved, by facts intimately connected with its organization, to wit, the presence of a large and very healthy and active Custom House lobby, that it was healthy. Nay we even showed that the opinion of Mr Daniel J Malarkey who is certainly a competent witness in such cases corresponded with our own as to the sanitary condition of the Convention and the salubriousness of its surroundings. And yet the Bulletin infers that we were dissatisfied. Most people like healthy things, and we are not different from most people in this respect. Therefore we were not dissatisfied with the Ring Convention.

Besides, why should we have been dissatisfied with it? It was just what we expected it to be. It was just what we had repeatedly predicted it would be. It was just what its predecessors for some time had been. Wherefore, then should we be disappointed that it was just what it was? If there was anybody in the community who expected the Convention to be anything but a machine to ratify the schemes of the Custom House clique and elect the delegate ticket agreed upon by them in their secret conclave, he may reasonably complain that he has been deceived and disappointed but even such a one deserves more pity for his ignorance than for the wrong practiced upon him. There are however, few, if any such persons in the community. Most people expected the ring to act as the ring always does act, and they were not so happy as to be disappointed, nor so unreasonable as to be dissatisfied.

And there is at least one more sufficient reason why no one should feel dissatisfied at the action of that Convention. It is a harmless performance this year. The nomination of a State ticket, for which this Convention was the preliminary step, is doubtless intended simply as a joke or else is merely for the sake of preserving the party organization to have it in readiness in case there should be another civil war. At all events, the ticket the ring Republicans may put into the field will have about as much show in the election, as a cat is supposed to have in that hottest of hot climates without those prehensile toe nails that are so useful to it in other situations. It is a very inoffensive enterprise these people are going into, and cannot possibly injure any one but the nominees. As for these, their political hides will be hung up to dry before the campaign is half way over, but that is their affair, not ours. We are not bound to suffer with them, nor for them. We may be forced to sympathize with them a little when the thing is done, but sympathy is very inexpensive—cheap, in fact—and we fully expect to be in circumstances when the election is over, as to be able to afford a small donation of that kind. No, no, it is a mistake—a misapprehension, we were not dissatisfied with the Ring Convention.

A WARNING

The San Francisco Call, in an article on the Independent movement in Oregon warns the people of this State against a mistake that the Independents made in some counties of California. It says:

> Oregon can take the achievement of California in the election of last fall as an example. The victory here though complete to an extent that gives assurance of a more sweeping triumph in the future, was a mistake, so far as the election of the old time politicians was concerned. Nearly all of those Senators and Assemblymen who have been office holders by profession have betrayed the people. The experience in California shows the necessity of dropping the old hacks and taking new men—farmers mechanics or business men. With these we doubt not taxes might be reduced in this State, and in Oregon, at least by one half.

The experience of California should be a lesson to Oregon. Let us profit by it. The professional politician in many instances has become such because he was too indolent to make a livelihood by any productive labor, or too avaricious to be content with the proceeds of legitimate business, and wanted to get his hands in to the public coffer. Such men, a priori are not the most desirable material of which to make public servants and in most cases the results of selecting them to fill responsible positions prove that reason was right in doubting them from the first.

There is no mystery about official business, that men trained to thought and action in the common walks of life cannot transact it. A man who exercises good common sense in his own affairs possesses all the intellectual qualifications to fit him for the transaction of the business of the community at large. A man who proves himself capable honest and faithful in private affairs, will certainly prove a capable, honest and faithful public servant if elected to office and one who is incapable, dishonest or unfaithful in the one, will be the same in the other. There are no exceptions to this rule. If the Independents bear this fact in mind it will not be difficult for them to select candidates who will have the confidence and receive the votes of the people, and when elected will go to work in good faith to effect the reforms demanded by the country.

The Cincinnati Enquirer observes that all the distinguished men who took part in the violent political contests of 1850-51 are now dead. It names Webster Clay Calhoun Cass Buchanan, Douglas, Benton Fillmore, Seward Chase Sumner, Corwin Bell Everett and Dickinson.

The San Francisco Chronicle states that Calvin B McDonald, the well known editor has withdrawn from the Oakland Transcript and entered the lecture field.

WANTED—CANDIDATES

In the Salem Statesman of Monday we find the following card:

MR EDITOR: I desire, through your paper, to respectfully decline the nomination for County Surveyor by the Democratic Convention.

WM P PUGH

This we believe makes the third nominee on the Marion County Democratic ticket that has declined to allow his name to be used. Mr Pugh is prominently connected with the Independent movement in Marion, and his nomination in the first instance was simply the ruse of political managers to catch his influence. Such tactics are not to be despised. They do more by indirection to aid the cause of reform than the managers could possibly accomplish by personal appeal. These defections are going on right under his Excellency's nose and if they continue in the ratio in which they have begun the Democratic managers in Marion county will soon be advertising for sealed proposals to furnish a county ticket made up of men who will stay where they are put.

Philadelphia people are not disposed to accept the advice of the United States Senate. They insist that the honor of their city and State is pledged to making the Centennial Exhibition the grandest international fair of the century. This appears from the following telegram dated Philadelphia, March 25th:

A meeting of the Centennial Commissioners was held this evening. They invite Germany Holland Belgium Greece, Switzerland Hayti and the Sandwich Islands to participate in the Exposition. The resolutions pledge the citizens of Philadelphia to increase the subscriptions to not less than $1,000,000 for Centennial purposes and declare that such a course would meet with general approval. Several speeches were delivered referring to the Centennial as a means of conciliating and uniting all sections and generally supporting the international character of the Exhibition and declaring that in no event would Philadelphia or Pennsylvania allow the event to be dwarfed by jealousy or indifference. The enthusiasm on the subject was intense.

There are fourteen precincts in Benton county. In only four of these did the Democrats hold primaries and the aggregate vote of these four in the primaries amounted to less than twenty. The Republicans did a little better. They managed to have meetings in five precincts out of the fourteen and polled an aggregate of seventy votes. How is that for party spirit?

Having escaped from the penal colony of New Caledonia Henri Rochefort proposes coming to America on a lecturing tour. There are some Irreconcilables in New York City who would joyfully welcome the radical publisher of La Lanterne.

This is the day on which the Albany Convention should have been held. The point to Governor Grover's little speech would have been more clearly apparent to the average human optic had it been delivered on All Fool's Day.

A CRUEL JOKE

SALEM March 31 1874

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

As the Bulletin has a crazy account from its correspondent here of the precinct meeting of Salem on Saturday, it is but fair you should have the reasons for that document.

Upon the calling of the house to order it was discovered that the Custom House ring (that part of it that stretches to Alaska) was present and ready to report. It was then stated that the reform movement of the people was for the purpose of correcting abuses of transportation, taxation fees unrestrained drunkenness and other evils. This was said in a general manner, and no mention was made whatever of the "lock and dam" elephant. But one of our wags in a dry way whispered to the Major that just as like as not Lawson would buy the locks and canal at Oregon City, and he had better start immediately or he couldn't get through to Alaska! It was a cruel joke and has had a terrible effect in shattering the Major's reason as any one can see by reading his ravings in the letter to his master at Portland. I would like to say to calm the fears of the excited Major that the new and capacious steamer the Willamette Chief came up yesterday and the sight of her and the other splendid boats of the Company that owns the locks and the fair price of freights and passage their business energies have compelled the Railroad to observe perfectly satisfy the people to leave those improvements to navigation where they now are and in the hands that now hold them.

The people's movement does not propose to go into the business of buying up anybody's elephant. Neither the locks and canal nor the railroad. Those institutions may be ten or twenty years ahead of the times but the State does not propose to take them off the hands of the projectors no more than did Marion county propose to buy the Major for her elephant at the price of the Clerk's office.

I am, in behalf of truth on the part of correspondents truly yours &c

G W LAWSON

A SENSIBLE PROTEST

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I wish to remonstrate against Gov Grover's construction of the obligations of the Executive respecting the exercise of the veto power as reported in the OREGONIAN—that it is his duty to approve of all acts of the Legislative Assembly not conflicting with the Constitution or against which there is no public remonstrance. That in all other cases he is to waive his personal opinions and objections and approve of bills in violation of his judgment. I regard such doctrine as pernicious and I would be sorry to believe that Gov Grover approves it to the extent reported—or indeed to any extent.

The Governor is made by our Constitution an independent and essential part of the law making power and he has no right under his oath to subordinate his opinion to that of the other and only co-ordinate branch of that power. That instrument contemplates as the public interests require that he shall withhold his approval from all bills which for any good reason—any reason which may properly control the vote thereon of a member of either House of the Assembly. His right of objection goes also to the general merits of a measure. And entertaining them it is as much his duty to enforce them when the public do not as when they do remonstrate. You report the Governor as instancing the fee bill. Let us take that as an example. An interested lobby procured the passage of a bill establishing [illegible] fees. The public not being at the capital knew nothing about it and hence could not remonstrate. Was it any less the duty of the Governor to veto the bill and protect the people? I expect to vote for Gov Grover and I cannot believe he endorses such vicious doctrine. I believe he has a better reason than that for having failed to veto the fee bill. I doubt if he was aware of the rapacious extent to which it increased fees if indeed, he was aware that it increased them at all.

GRANGES IN WASHINGTON TERRITORY

It is claimed that there are now in Washington Territory sparsely settled as it is forty granges in good working order.

The Olympia Courier says: I L Smith deputy master left Monday morning to visit Chehalis Valley and organize granges. Our friends in Whatcom county must be patient a Deputy will go down on the Libby next trip and spend a week or so among them, and calls for granges can be attended to from Whatcom or LaConner. As many as six are wanted in Whatcom and few for Whidby's Island and San Juan counties. Granges will be in order for the next three months by which time most of the preliminary work of organizing will be over.

The Olympia Grange held their second harvest feast on Saturday last. The beautiful weather brought out the lady members in full force and a full and interesting meeting was held lasting from 11 until 4 with only a short interval of adjournment at noon. Business matters occupied a considerable portion of the session and fair progress was made in the direction of adjusting the difficult problems under consideration. More time will be required before any fixed plan can be announced. An efficient committee has this matter in hand. A large class of ladies will be organized on April 1 for membership besides more than the usual number of [illegible].

At the regular meeting of District Grange Patrons of Husbandry of Walla Walla and Umatilla counties held March 6th 1874 among others the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved That Hon W H Newell be invited to address the Grangers and Producers generally of Walla Walla and Umatilla counties on the Wants and Interests of Eastern Oregon and Washington Territory.

Resolved That a committee of three be appointed to wait on Hon W H Newell and request him to deliver the address as above on the first Friday of April, 1874 at 11 o'clock A M.

IN MEMORIAM.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED BY CATARACT HOSE COMPANY OF OREGON CITY ON THE DEATH OF CHARLES E WARREN

OREGON CITY March 30 1874

At a special meeting of Cataract Hose Co No 2 of this city held this evening the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS In the inscrutable wisdom of Divine Providence our highly esteemed friend and fellow member Charles E Warren Esq has been removed by death therefore

Resolved 1 That in all our intercourse with our late brother we have found him the generous open handed true hearted man and gallant fireman and we shall ever cherish his memory with pleasant and tender recollections.

2 That in token of our regard for our late brother fireman the rooms and cart of this Company shall be draped in mourning for the ensuing thirty days.

3 That we deeply condole with the widow in this her saddest hour of affliction and also with the bereaved relatives of the deceased.

4 That the Secretary be instructed to present to the widow and father of the deceased a copy of these resolutions and furnish a copy of the same to the Oregon City Enterprise and Portland dailies.

As such [illegible] Hebrew people observe it but [illegible] that instead of observing [illegible] seven—that being a [illegible] importance. Instead of [illegible] fire-works cannot and [illegible] extra prayers and [illegible] and during the whole week [illegible] leavened bread called in the Bible the humble or afflicted. The Passover [illegible] for thanksgiving hospitality [illegible] of the humble state of the [illegible] of Egypt.

[illegible] PLACE —Some days ago Mr [illegible] caused his residence on the [illegible] corner of Washington and [illegible] to be removed a few yards north [illegible] making the change it was found necessary to take down the chimneys. Among the bricks was found a business card in a good state of preservation considering the fact that it was over 15 years. The building having been erected some time between 1850 and [illegible] style of the card is "Fred. Harbaugh [illegible] Stitzel [illegible] engaged in general [illegible] business. Their store was located [illegible] street one door north of [illegible]. The reverse side bears writing [illegible] which is so much defaced that its meaning cannot be made clear. How that card got into the fireplace is the question.

[illegible] —Wells, Fargo & Co commence to day running messengers through from Portland to Tacoma. J Welch and N [illegible] have been appointed messengers [illegible] connections with the Sound daily [illegible] freight carried at reasonable rates. We learn that Tacoma has been made the [illegible] office for the entire Sound section and [illegible] post office will hereafter be the principal one in the Territory. An arrangement has been made with Capt [illegible] of the [illegible] to carry the express matter between the depot and office in the lower town. Mr Robert G Hays will continue to acceptably fill the office of local agent.

AN EXCELLENT PAINTING —At the show window of Geo A Steel & Co can be seen the latest from the brush of that talented artist Mr J H Garrigan. It is a view of Mount Hood taken from near the summit of Marquam Hill and includes some of the adjacent scenery. The painting is executed in oil colors and is 50x30 inches. We have seen and admired many of the creations of Mr Garrigan's fancy and brush but we are inclined to pronounce this last work his master piece. The work is admirably executed, and bespeaks throughout a true artist's conception and a pathetic skillful hand. This painting requires only to be seen to be admired and appreciated.

DISAPPEARED —A daughter of Mrs Smith who keeps a very low vile den on Second street disappeared quite suddenly on Monday afternoon and up to present writing her whereabouts had not been ascertained. Diligent search has been and is being made for the girl but all efforts thus far made, have proved unavailing. This unfortunate girl is aged about 14 years. It appears that the mother and daughter had indulged in high words resulting in the latter's leaving the parental domicile in high dudgeon. We hear it surmised that the girl has left the city in company with a certain well known individual.

NOT CORRECT —We are requested to state on the authority of Mr Warren father of the late Charles E Warren, that the report published in the other daily papers of the city in relation to the widow and child of deceased being prostrated with smallpox is entirely unfounded. No new cases have been developed as yet and every precaution is being taken by [illegible] people that the contagion will spread no further.

ENDORSING RESOLUTION —At the last regular meeting of Multnomah Lodge I O G T the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved That we are pleased to see the efforts now being made by the ladies and Christian churches of this city for the suppression of the traffic in intoxicating beverages and trust they will persevere until intemperance is banished from our land.

CITY.

HEBREW PASSOVER.—To-day will commence the celebration of the Hebrew Passover a Biblical festival instituted in commemoration of the exodus of the Israelites from Egypt the land of bondage The Hebrew name for the festival is Pas Sah 'Stepping over passing by' and hence signifies omitting or sparing bearing the name in reference to the Angel of Death a poetic expression for death as the Hebrew call all means and instrumentalities angels "He makes the winds His angels the flames of fire His ministering angels"—Psalms 104 4 The festival is observed for seven days abstaining on the first and last days from laborious work. The origin of the institution being both national emancipation and the deliverance being from Egyptian servitude to self government and independence, the passover is to the Hebrew people what the Fourth of July is to the people of the United States As such a festival the Hebrew people observe it, but with the difference that instead of observing one day they observe seven—that being a number of symbolical importance Instead of observing the days by fire-works cannon and processions they recite extra prayers and thanksgivings and during the whole week they eat unleavened bread called in the Bible bread of the humble or afflicted The Passover is a time for thanksgiving hospitality and a remembrance of the humble state of the nation in the land of Egypt

IN A QUEER PLACE.—Some days ago Mr P Van Fridagh caused his residence on the northeast corner of Washington and Lownsdale streets, to be removed a few yards northward. In making the change it was found necessary to take down the chimneys Among the bricks was found a business card in a good state of preservation, considering the fact that it was there over 15 years the building having been constructed some time between 1850 and 1859 The style of the card is "Fred Harbaugh & Jacob Stitzel, then engaged in general merchandising business Their store was located on Front street one door north of Taylor west side The reverse side bears writing in pencil, which is so much defaced that its meaning is not made clear How that card got into that fireplace is the question

APPOINTMENTS.—Wells, Fargo & Co commence to-day running messengers through from Portland to Tacoma J Welch and N. S Pierce have been appointed messengers Through connections with the Sound daily Money and freight carried at reasonable rates We also learn that Tacoma has been made the distributing office for the entire Sound section and like the post office will hereafter be the principal one in the Territory. An arrangement has been made with Capt Messegee, of the Lady to carry the express matter between the depot and office in the lower town Mr Robert G Hays will continue to acceptably fill the office of local agent.

AN EXCELLENT PAINTING.—At the show window of Geo A Steel & Co can be seen the "latest" from the brush of that talented artist Mr J H Garrigan It is a view of Mount Hood taken from near the summit of Marquam Hill, and includes some of the adjacent scenery The painting is executed in oil colors and is 50x30 inches We have seen and admired many of the creations of Mr Garrigan's fancy and brush but we are inclined to pronounce this last work his master piece The work is admirably executed, and bespeaks throughout a true artist's conception and a patient, skillful hand This painting requires only to be seen to be admired and appreciated

DISAPPEARED.—A daughter of Mrs Smith who keeps a very low, vile den on Second street disappeared quite suddenly on Monday afternoon, and up to present writing, her whereabouts had not been ascertained Diligent search has been, and is being made for the girl, but all efforts thus far made, have proved unavailing This unfortunate girl is aged about 14 years It appears that the mother and daughter had indulged in high words, resulting in the latter's leaving the parental domicile in high dudgeon We hear it surmised that the girl has left the city in company with a certain well known individual

NOT CORRECT.—We are requested to state, on the authority of Mr Warren father of the late Charles E Warren, that the report published in the other daily papers of the city in relation to the widow and child of deceased being prostrated with smallpox is entirely unfounded No new cases have been developed as yet and as every precaution is being taken it is quite probable that the contagion will spread no further

ENDORSING RESOLUTION.—At the last regular meeting of Multnomah Lodge I O G T the following resolution was adopted

Resolved, That we are pleased to see the efforts now being made by the ladies and Christian churches of this city for the suppression of the traffic in intoxicating beverages, and trust they will persevere until intemperance is banished from our land.

BREAKING GROUND--TRINITY PARSONAGE.

Formal breaking of ground and the commencement of the work of constructing a new parsonage for the Rector of Trinity Church took place yesterday morning, as previously announced The site chosen on which will be erected this structure is the vacant lot at the southeast corner of Oak and Fifth streets Eleven o clock was the hour designated for holding these ceremonies Immediately at the close of the usual morning services at Trinity Church the members of the congregation who were present were arranged in processional order at the side entrance to the church The procession was headed by Bishop Morris and Rev Geo Burton rector of the church Next following these came the vestrymen of the Church—Hon M P Deady J H Reed Dr R B Wilson Dr Glisan Judge E Hamilton and Arthur Cristfield Following these came a large number of ladies As appropriate to the ceremonies soon to be observed the 15th Psalm was selected which was chanted aloud by all in the procession as they moved slowly and with a solemn tread toward the spot designated On reaching the place where the ground was to be formally broken the procession moved around so as to form a hollow semi-circle When the last verse of the Psalm was read Bishop Morris and the Rector stepped to the front Prayer was then fervently offered up by the Bishop after which he delivered a brief and beautiful address At its conclusion Bishop Morris took up a spade and shoveled some earth away thus formally and with the invocation of Divine blessings inaugurating the work which, when completed would afford the Rector and his family a comfortable home for the future The Rector Rev Mr Burton, next shoveled away several spadefuls of earth after which the members of the vestry according to seniority were invited to step forward and do likewise an invitation of which all present availed themselves Ladies and the children next came forward with alacrity and disturbed the soil as an earnest of their sympathies and co operation in the good work thus commenced under such favorable auspices And thus concluded the formal inauguration of the work which we learn is to be supplemented at once by real earnest operations

The parsonage structure is to be built in the form of a T Its dimensions are length of the main building 36 feet width 19 feet length of wings 32 feet width 15 feet The building will be constructed of wood reposing on a substantial foundation of brick and will be 1½ stories in height besides the basement Mr Therkelsen has the contract for building the parsonage Excavation will be commenced at once after which the masonry work of the basement and the wooden portions will follow in rapid succession Ninety days is the time allotted for the completion of the building, Work will be crowded forward with all expedition until the finishing stroke has been given

VISITING THE SALOONS.

We observed yesterday a number of ladies out on the streets and visiting the saloons of the city, as they have been accustomed to do for the past week A number of saloons were visited singing engaged in and prayers offered About noon a delegation visited for the third or fourth time the Webfoot saloon, situated at the corner of Morrison and First streets owned by Mr Walter Moffett These ladies were met at the door of the saloon by the proprietor, who declined to allow the delegation to enter his premises as he has heretofore done Having no other alternative the ladies began to sing on the sidewalk and to engage in prayer An immense crowd collected about the ladies out of curiosity and watched the proceeding with more than ordinary interest Mr Moffett when he found the delegation were determined not to leave, came elbowing his way through the crowd to the door of his saloon In one hand he held a Bible and in the other a pair of spectacles With great mock gravity, he carefully adjusted the spectacles on his nose He then proceeded to read from the Bible The passages read were seemingly selected with express reference to the occasion, being such detached portions of Holy Writ which when taken disconnectedly, are the most offensive and improper Whenever Mr Moffett could manage to be heard above the songs and prayers he continued to read these passages and make comments on the same in a scoffing and irreverent manner When expostulated with by one of the ladies with tears in her eyes, and asked why he persisted in such insulting conduct, he replied, substantially that he was an educated man and he educated his children he generally attended to his own business and would be much obliged to them if they would do the same so long as they persisted in visiting his place of business he would always find something with which to "stand them off" they had better go home and attend to their household duties and it would be better for them he regarded such unseemly and improper demonstaations as hypocrisy and he considered that he stood as fair on the books up there (meaning in Heaven) as any of them and he thought he had as good a record too After a few songs and prayers, the ladies then withdrew and returned to the church About 4 o clock in the afternoon another delegation again visited Mr Moffett's saloon We learn that they met with a similar reception at the hands of the proprietor To-day we are informed these ladies will be out again in full force

WAR AGAINST RUM.

Last evening there was a noticeable increase in the attendance at the Taylor Street Church the vestry room being crowded to the extent of its capacity, by a thoughtful and attentive audience Most of the evening was devoted to the discussion of the subject of Wine Drinking This subject was taken up and thoroughly and logically analyzed Rev Mr Izer took the matter in hand and discussed the question purely from a biblical standpoint in a very able and interesting manner He was followed by Rev Mr Medbury who discussed the quality effect and quantity of wine consumed in the State of California, drawn from personal observations obtained from a number of years residence in the vine growing and wine producing districts of that State Rev G H Atkinson addressed the large audience at some length in which the quality of the vintage manufactured and the quantity consumed in the Old World especially in Europe was taken up and treated in a manner which claimed the profound attention of those present Altogether considered the meeting was one of the most profitable which has yet been held in behalf of this noble cause There was no lack of enthusiasm or the least decrease in the interest which has all along attached to these gatherings Meetings will be resumed this evening

TEMPERANCE CONVENTION.

FORENOON SESSION

A Convention of Friends of Temperance met at Good Templars Hall in this city Tuesday March 31st pursuant to a call by the Chairman of the Committee heretofore appointed by the Oregon State Temperance Alliance

The Convention was called to order by I W Ryan Chairman of the Committee appointed to issue the call He stated the object of the meeting and that the first business of the meeting would be the election of a temporary Chairman and Secretary Accordingly Rev Clinton Kelly of East Portland was chosen Chairman pro tem and F W Ryan Secretary

On motion of A C Walling, the meeting resolved itself into a mass convention of the friends of Temperance

On motion of I W Ryan it was ordered that a committee of three persons be appointed to submit the names of persons for permanent officers of the Convention and an order of business The following persons were chosen as such committee G W Dimmick A C Walling and J H Lambert

On motion the Convention took a recess of fifteen minutes to afford the above committee time to prepare a report

AFTER RECESS

The Committee on Permanent Officers and Order of Business reported recommending the name of Rev Clinton Kelly of Multnomah county for Chairman and Mr J G Foster of Clackamas for Secretary and that the Convention appoint a Committee on Resolutions consisting of five persons and adjourn until 1 P M at which time the report of such committee be made to the Convention

On motion the report was adopted

Mr Foster declined to act as Secretary and and Mr Geo W Dimmick was elected to that position

The Convention then proceeded to the election of a Committee on Resolutions resulting in the choice of the following named gentlemen I W Ryan J H Lambert C H Walker G W Dimmick and A C Walling

The Convention then adjourned until 1 o clock P M

AFTERNOON SESSION

The Convention was called to order by the President at the appointed hour

The journal of the morning session was read and approved

On motion W G Welch of Clackamas county was appointed Assistant Secretary

The Committee on Resolutions submitted their report as follows

WHEREAS The liquor traffic is the great curse that afflicts us as a State and nation producing untold misery and degradation and placing burdens upon us exceeding by far all others and

WHEREAS Years of agitation have but demonstrated the fact that nothing but the strong arm of the law is adequate to the task of putting down this traffic and

WHEREAS In order to secure temperance legislation and the enforcement of temperance laws it is necessary to elect true and tried temperance men to all the various offices in the gift of the people and

WHEREAS We consider it not within the province of this Convention to make nominations therefore

Resolved That we recommend that in all counties of this State mass temperance meetings be held at the county seats on Saturday April 25 1874 to nominate temperance men for county and legislative offices and to elect delegates to attend a State Convention to be held at Portland on Wednesday May 6 1874 to nominate State officers and a Congressman

Resolved That a State Central Committee be elected whose duty it shall be to issue said call and carry out the spirit of these resolutions

The resolutions were adopted seriatim

The Convention then proceeded to select a State Central Committee in accordance with the resolution, and the following gentlemen were chosen Rev C Kelly of Multnomah county N A W Howe of Linn W G Welch of Clackamas Wm McLeod of Washington, and George W Dimmick of Marion

Calls were made for Leland the Hermit, and that apostle of temperance responded in an enthusiastic but brief speech. He was followed by Father Kelly Messrs McLeod, Dimmick and Ryan who addressed the Convention upon the objects and purposes of the temperance people All the speakers except one seemed to have lost hope of the old political parties doing anything for temperance and thought active measures should be taken by the friends of the cause Mr McLeod, however who is a delegate from Washington county to the Republican State Convention felt that the party to which he belonged would do something, though just what he did not state

On motion L W Ryan was added to the State Central Committee.

The following petition to the Oregon Legislature was read, and the invitation given to persons to come forward and sign the same

PETITION

To the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Oregon.—The undersigned citizens of the State of Oregon, believing that the liquor traffic the true parent of intemperance and its attendant evils is the prolific source of pauperism crime and human misery and that its continuance is detrimental to the best interests and welfare of the community, and being satisfied that the time has come when something more than mere moral agencies should be applied to check these evils which all good people deplore we would most respectfully petition your honorable body to repeal all laws licensing the sale of intoxicating liquors in the State of Oregon, and in lieu thereof to enact such just and binding laws as will entirely prohibit such sale

And your petitioners will ever pray &c

A number of those present signed the petition

The Chairman stated that the State Central Committee would meet immediately after the adjournment of the Convention and on motion the Convention adjourned sine die

MEETING OF THE PORTLAND BAR.

On learning of the death of Charles L Warren, of Oregon City, a meeting of the members of the Bar of this city was held in the United States Circuit Court room of which Court deceased was a member on Tuesday morning

Ex Governor A C Gibbs was chosen Chairman of the meeting and Presley Denny Secretary

On motion it was resolved that a committee of five be appointed to draft resolutions expressive of the feelings of members of the Bar on the death of their late brother and friend

The Chairman appointed J H Reed Richard Williams S M Rice, J H Woodward and Presley Denny as members of such committee

The meeting then adjourned to meet on Tuesday morning at the same place when the Committee on Resolutions submitted the following,

Resolved That it is with feelings of profound sorrow and regret that we hear of the death of our brother and associate Charles L Warren

Resolved That in the death of Charles L Warren the Bar of this State and particularly of this District has lost one of its most promising, young members—combining, as he did, in an unusual degree the elements of character which are required to make a successful practitioner at the Bar his loss will be severely felt and deplored not alone by his brethren of the Bar but by the community at large

Resolved That while we bow in humble submission to the Chastening Hand of Him who doeth all things well we cannot but feel that it could have been in accordance with the Divine will to spare our young brother to a life which promised to be a long and useful one

Resolved That these resolutions be spread upon the journals of the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Oregon and of the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for the County of Multnomah and that a copy under the seal of the Court be forwarded to the family of the deceased brother

All of which is respectfully submitted [illegible] papers of this city

"HOUSEKEEPER" OF HEALTH.

The liver being the great depurating or blood cleansing organ of the system—set this great housekeeper of our health at work and the foul corruptions which gender in the blood and rot out as it were the machinery of life are gradually expelled from the system For this purpose Dr Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery with very small daily doses of Dr Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets are pre eminently the articles needed They cure every kind of humor from the worst scrofula to the common pimple blotch or eruption. Great eating ulcers kindly heal under their mighty curative influence Virulent blood poisons that lurk in the system are by them robbed of their terrors and by their persevering and somewhat protracted use the most tainted systems may be completely renovated and built up anew Enlarged glands tumors and swellings dwindle away and disappear under the influence of these great resolvents

DOCTORS COULDN'T HELP HIM

MILLSVILLE Morgan Co O March 4th 1872
Dear Dr Pierce

When I was 12 or 13 years of age I took what is called King's Evil and by constant doctoring it would heal in one place and break out in another It at last broke out in my left ear I first found your name in the Christian Advocate and I sent ten miles for the first bottle which did me more good than all other medicines I ever used I am 28 years old, and doctored with five doctors, and not one of them helped me so much as your bottle of Discovery I have got well and able to do a good day's work

A MEXICAN SABBATH

There are several churches in Tepic The large cathedral on the Plaza is a very fine building Feast days are rather too frequent in this progressive age More than half the time is consumed in these festivals But it seems the lower class of Mexicans have become so habituated to them that they could not be happy otherwise The Plaza every Sunday presents a lively appearance The native Indians and mestizos come in from the country to sell their vegetables fruits and various kinds of ware They are seated in rows upon the ground entirely covering the large Plaza and with their peculiar costume present an interesting and picturesque scene At eight o clock when the padre is taking the Holy Sacrament in the church fronting the Plaza the bell taps and the vast multitude cease talking and laughing and fall upon their knees with their faces toward the church Then all is silent as death not a word is spoken not a dog barks or burro brays At the expiration of about three minutes the bell again taps all rise, and resume their avocations

On feast days as well as on Sundays church is first attended to then the bull fight cock fighting and other barbarous amusements The church has many ways of getting money out of the poor people, one of which is as follows When the Plaza is crowded with the country people a man—perhaps one of the attachés of the church—goes round among the crowd with a crucified Jesus nailed to a cross, mangled and bloody for the privilege of kissing the feet of this figure, each poor creature pays something to the man who carries it No one that I could see refused the proffered kiss—J F Grayson, in Overland for April

ANOTHER KANSAS MURDER OF THE BENDER STYLE

A dispatch from St Louis Mo, March 3 says a special from Topeka Kansas to the Globe gives an account of a terrible murder there on Thursday night but which was not discovered until last evening. It appears that Dan [illegible] keeper of a grocery on Sixth avenue north [illegible] side of the city, had not been seen for a couple of days and suspicion being aroused [illegible] officers visited his [illegible] yesterday afternoon and found it in possession of Fred Olds and his [illegible] aged 17 years. On being questioned closely, they gave such contradicting statements that they were arrested [illegible] premises searched and the body of Harris was found buried in the cellar under a pile of potatoes with a bullet hole through the head and the throat cut. An inquest was held to day and facts elicited which lead to the belief that Fred Olds committed the deed but no positive evidence was obtained. The inquest will be continued to-morrow. Frank Olds the father was a driver of an express wagon and Fred his son, was a wild and idle boy. Harris came from Indianapolis about a year ago, where he has two children [illegible] wife being dead. Great excitement prevails among all classes of citizens, nothing of such an atrocious character having occurred since the Bender murder.

A SCENE IN THE SOUTH CAROLINA LEGISLATURE.—The Columbia correspondent of the Charleston (S C) News describes a recent scene in the South Carolina House of Representatives as follows: "The House was at this time in great confusion. Holmes, of Colleton called upon the chair for the yeas and nays, but the call was not recognized by the Speaker until the vote had been announced, whereupon Holmes arose to a question of privilege which was overruled. Holmes, however insisted upon his question of privilege, and began to make a speech. It was then that a most ridiculous scene ensued. While the member for Colleton was going ahead slowly with his question of privilege his brother members seemed to be suddenly seized with a species of epizootic or influenza. It was evidently a deliberate premeditated design to cough the member down, and taking in the situation at a glance he became proportionally wrothy. He first called upon the Speaker to protect him, to which the Speaker replied that the gas was probably escaping. This made the member more wrothy, and he threw out the 'innuendo' that some of the members were choking with one of Joe Woodruff's $250,000 pills. Mackey appealed to the Speaker to send for a physician. But the coughing continued until the member from Colleton began to realize that his brother members were not disposed to hear him, whereupon he gracefully took his seat, and the symptoms of epizootic disappeared."

QUARRELING LEGISLATORS.—A letter from Jackson, Miss., to the Vicksburg Herald says: "A street fracas occurred between two members of the House just after adjournment to day. Thompson of Lowndes, and Landers of Jefferson, (both colored), took different views upon the bill regulating the salaries of Judges and District Attorneys. As they passed out from the capitol, and when near Hinckle's saloon, on State street, Thompson said to Landers, 'You ought to speak to me as a gentleman should be spoken to.' Landers replied, 'But I'm not going to do it.' They then went for one another in a way that was neither child like nor bland. Attorney General Harris rushed up to separate the [illegible] severe blow on the head, he willingly retired. Landers then drew a pistol when Thompson seized Senator Gray and held him up between himself and the threatening artillery. Gray didn't like the situation, and wriggled himself out, but not before the pistol had been secured and the combatants taken in charge by their friends."

THOMPSONIAN ELOQUENCE.—It appears that there came before the Ohio Legislature recently a proposition to pay the losses occasioned by Union forces while in pursuit of rebel raiders, and Thompson remarked as follows:

Mr Speaker, the Government, isn't under no obligations to pay for the mischief and rascality and thieving that was done by the Union forces, as they called 'em. Them things is all gone by now, and what's wanted is to let bygones be bygones. [Laughter.] The thing is gone by, it's barred by the statute of limitations. [Great Laughter.] You see, when we open up a somthin' another that we don't see, the end from the beginning', we better stop. We might be called upon to make appropriations for that that was done by the Union forces that forced down the doors of our lamented Clement L. Vallandingham. We propose to—to let us have peace. [Great merriment.] The thing is barred by the statute of limitations, and we ain't goin' to reopen 'em.

HANDY TO HAVE IN THE HOUSE.—A novel dining-table is now in use in one of the palaces of the Emperor of Russia. The table is a circular, and is placed on a weighted platform. At the touch of a signal like a rub of Aladdin's lamp, down goes the table through the floor, and a new table, loaded with fresh dishes and supplies, rises in its place. But this is not all, each plate stands on a weighted disk, the table-cloth being cut with circular openings, one for each plate. He touches a signal at his side, when presto, his plate disappears and another rises. These mechanical dining tables render the presence of servants quite superfluous. In this country, at the Oneida Community they employ dining-tables having the centre part made to revolve. Here the goblets, spoons, tea and coffee, casters, pitchers and other necessary articles of table furniture are replaced. By revolving the centre piece, the sitter brings before him whatever article may be desired without the intervention of a special waiter.

SENATOR SUMNER'S COFFIN.—The Philadelphia Record gives the following description of the coffin forwarded to Washington from that city for the reception of the remains of the late Senator Sumner: "It is nearly square, and made of a species of wood said to be more durable than any metal. The side panels are covered with black cloth. The handles, of which there are eight, are of solid silver. They represent two hands grasping a rod about eighteen inches long. The lid is of two parts, or panels, and made of French crystal plate glass. Two panels of cloth are made so as to cover the glass when required. The entire casket is surrounded by a massive molding of silver. The inside is upholstered with white satin, silk and Venetian lace heavy silken tassels dropping from each corner. The casket is six feet four inches in length, four handles above described being on each side.

Nine vessels says the Iron were built on the Sound last year and received their first marine documents at Port Townsend as follows: Steamer Empire 73[illegible] tons, schooner L L Heywood 10[illegible], schooner May Hare 64, schooner George Francis Train, 26, barge Western Terminus [illegible], barge Red Cloud 31, scow Bradshaw [illegible], sloop Magnolia, 12, sloop Edith, 6. A number of fine large vessels are now on the stocks at Ports Discovery, Ludlow, Blakely and Freeport and the barkentine Modoc already sent out from Utsalady—all [illegible] others to follow making a handsomer showing for 1874 than that of 1873.

The condition of our local finances now is that the [illegible] ing there was an improved at a corresponding per [illegible] one showing that [illegible] which was hoped for and some solution [illegible] dullness which prevail [illegible] means confined to this section or coast but [illegible] of the [illegible] question and now that the [illegible] dy has taken one [illegible] the matter there [illegible] present policy pursued especially from those who [illegible] San Francisco exchange [illegible] inflation by [illegible] of New York Chicago and other [illegible]

[illegible] the wealth of the holders of these papers [illegible] law of supply and demand is inexorable and applies to money with the same force as to other commodities. The hue and cry that this section [illegible] that section has not all the currency it is entitled to is the merest bunkum. [illegible] the most needed and where it [illegible] its possessors the largest returns and legitimate industry will give to every man all the money he is entitled, and were the circulation increased a hundred fold bummers would be bummers still and from them and their ilk would ascend the cry for more currency. As a sort of apology for its act on Congress voted that the limit of the currency thereafter should be forever fixed at $400 000 000. Such conduct is a farce and can have no binding effect on a succeeding Congress which could point back to the present as establishing a precedent which ought never to be allowed. Another bad feature of the bill is the depreciating effect of such increase on Government paper. That portion of the reserve already issued has depreciated the value of Legal Tenders from 90 to 89 thus robbing the holders of the $[illegible] 000 000 afloat prior to the act of the Secretary of over $14 000 000. The issuance of the remainder of the reserve it is natural to suppose will have a similar depressing effect.

The World's National Debts.

In 1848 the debts of the great civilized nations of the world amounted to $8 [illegible] 000 000. Now they amount to about $[illegible] 000 000 000 an increase which is attributed to the unprecedented development of the investing spirit and the aid given by governments to public works and especially to the occurrence of great and expensive wars. Of the entire addition to the debt, nearly two thirds have been incurred by six nations viz, France the United States Russia Austria Italy and Spain and of the remaining third the greater part has been incurred by six other States viz Turkey Egypt Portugal Brazil Peru and Mexico. England and Denmark pay but 3½ per cent interest on their debt. France and the United States pay from [illegible] or even higher. Greece is said to pay [illegible] per cent and Honduras the enormous rate of 66 per cent. The stocks of the countries paying low and moderate interest have increased some $800 000 000 over the price of issue while the stocks of those paying high and excessive interest have depreciated over $1 000 000 000.

The Iron Trade.

The organ of the Iron and Steel Association at Philadelphia says:

In the Iron trade there is a special reason for continued dullness. The railroad companies hesitate to make their usual yearly contracts for rails and other iron supplies, and as they consume about one half of all the iron the country produces and buys abroad the interruption to the iron business from this source alone is simply overwhelming. Like other interests the companies are waiting for a solution of the financial question but they are also waiting let it be stated to see whether the prices of iron will not fall to yet lower figures than are now asked. We are told for instance that they do not believe the bottom price of rails has yet been reached.

We believe that the bottom price of rails has been reached. The railroad companies can now contract for iron rails at $60 to $65 at the mills and at lower figures than these good rails can not be made with a profit, even at the present low prices for labor and pig iron. Before they will undertake to make rails at lower prices many of the best mills in the country will not make rails at all. If rails could be afforded for less than $60 we may be sure that offers to make them at lower figures would be plenty for the rail capacity of the country is this year unfortunately far beyond its necessities and competition is likely to be brisker than it has ever been. But no competition in the manufacture of rails can ever be carried so far as to make them at a loss. They cost too much money to give any excuse for such foolishness. Sixty dollars may therefore be regarded as the bottom price for good rails for 1874. It ought to be plain to the comprehension of every man that everything connected with the iron trade long ago touched a bottom price—rails pig iron bar iron labor etc. Consumers of iron can gain nothing by longer holding off and they may lose much. The iron makers have no better terms to offer. Between two opinions furnaces and rolling mills are standing idle and railroad material is wearing out. Meantime the Senate declares itself in emphatic terms in favor of more currency.

Puget Sound Commerce

During the year 1873 [illegible] American vessels entered at the Port Townsend Custom House from foreign countries having an aggregate tonnage of 81 91[illegible]. In the same time 88 foreign vessels arrived of a tonnage of 25,0[illegible]. Also 122 coasting vessels of [illegible] 831 tons. Total 170 vessels and 183 884 tons.

In the year [illegible] American vessels cleared for foreign ports of a tonnage of 10[illegible] 728. Foreign vessels 95 of a tonnage of 32,244. Coastwise [illegible] of 10 3[illegible]9 tons. Total 218 clearances and 1[illegible] 001 tons.

But a fractional number of our coasters are required to enter and clear and the above figures but feebly represent the real extent of that enormous trade.

January 1st 1874 10[illegible] vessels belonged in the District of an aggregate tonnage of 27 2[illegible]. There are [illegible] steamers in the District.

Miscellaneous.

The vessels noticed by us recently as chartered on the Atlantic coast to load here and at San Francisco show that the difference in charters is on an average about 15s—$3 63.

Our item of Wheat and Flour shipments yesterday should have read "Shipments of Wheat and Flour from Portland to Europe since August 1st 1873" etc.

The reported loss of Stock in eastern and south eastern Oregon and Washington and Idaho Territories it is claimed will amount to 1[illegible] per cent and will probably affect prices of beef cattle and mutton sheep somewhat in this market the coming season.

NEVADA.

[illegible] April 1.—The [illegible] of this [illegible] contains the following: From Dr [illegible] Osterhaut who came this evening from Smoky valley we get the particulars of a dreadful tragedy which occurred in that locality on Sunday about 1 o'clock. Osterhaut's nearest neighbor was a German named Christian Eckstein and has lived in the valley for the past two years occupying with his wife and two children aged two and three years a small stone cabin on a patch of hay land. Of late Eckstein and his wife have quarreled frequently, owing to the husband's jealousy of a young man named Norton who was herding a few cattle in the neighborhood. The neighbors paid no attention to the quarrels of the pair as they had been of too frequent occurrence to be noticed. Eckstein was known to be naturally of a quarrelsome disposition and had made frequent threats that he would kill both Norton and his wife [illegible] the people [illegible] the vicinity entertained [illegible] that he would carry his threat into execution. On Sunday last Osterhaut had occasion to pass Eckstein's cabin with his team and [illegible] nothing unusual [illegible] he [illegible] place halted his team and knocked at the door of the cabin. His summons meeting [illegible] response he was about to remount his wagon [illegible] the family had gone to town [illegible] impulse for which he can't account he [illegible] a second [illegible] and pushed open the door when a horrible [illegible] on the floor lay the lifeless body of Mrs Eckstein covered with blood [illegible] beyond recognition [illegible] almost in twain. At her feet lay her two little girls with their [illegible] their [illegible] two [illegible] They were the bodies of Norton and Eckstein. In the hand of the latter was [illegible] the [illegible] covered with blood and [illegible] Norton [illegible] a large sized dragoon revolver [illegible] discharged. The terrible sight nearly paralyzed Osterhaut [illegible] [illegible]

Mr George D Bayard who [illegible] the column of the Brooklyn Argus with daily sallies of wit and satire from his trenchant pen perpetrates the following good thing upon the lately departed Uncle Caleb:

Wealth, says the Jewish sage takes wings
In spite of all our pains—
Which may be why our Cushing finds
It hard to hold his Gaines.
